What is VACMA?

The Visual Artist and Craft Maker Awards (VACMA) is a programme of small grant schemes delivered in partnership with a range of local authorities and art organisations across Scotland. The schemes are managed locally by these partners.

VACMA offers fixed bursaries of £500 and £1000. The purpose of these bursaries is to support visual artists and craft makers in their creative and professional development.

VACMA has two deadlines:

- Autumn deadline: 5pm, 21 October 2025
- Winter deadline: 5pm, 3 February 2026

Please check with your local scheme before applying as some partners only run one deadline. For a full list of partners and links to the individual schemes, please visit the Creative Scotland website.

VACMA is supported by Creative Scotland through funding from the National Lottery. As such, a VACMA bursary cannot be used as partnership funding for any other Creative Scotland funding programmes.

Eligibility

Who can apply?

This fund is for practicing visual artists and craft makers who are based in Scotland.

To be eligible, you must:

- Live or maintain a studio space in the local authority area you are applying to
- Have submitted an End of Project Report if you are previous VACMA recipient.

Part-time students can apply, but you must:

- Provide evidence of your part-time status
- Confirm the activity you are applying for does not contribute toward your academic studies.

Further detail regarding student eligibility is included in the VACMA FAQs \(Appendix 2\).

If you are unsure about eligibility, please contact your local scheme.

Who cannot apply?

You are not eligible to apply if:

- You are a full-time student
- You are an artist or maker who does not live or maintain a studio space in the local authority area you are applying to
- You work in artforms other than visual art or craft
- You have previously received VACMA funding but have not submitted an end of project report by the application deadline.

Funding Details

What can the funding be used for?

The bursaries are designed to help you grow and develop your creative practice. You can use the funding for a wide range of activities including:

- Training and learning: This could be professional courses, workshops or peer-to-peer learning.
- Mentoring and skills development: Working with a mentor or developing new skills to support your creative development.
- Exploring new ideas: Trying out new techniques, materials or creative approaches.
- Research and development: Investigating and planning a new body of work.
- Sustainable practices: Experimenting with sustainable and renewable materials, circular design and low impact processes.
- Residencies: Taking part in a residency that supports your creative and professional development.
- Essential equipment: Buying equipment that clearly helps you experiment or develop your practice.
- Creating new work: Getting extra support to make new work for an exhibition or public presentation.

What the funding doesn't support?

VACMA does not support:

- Activities starting too soon: Projects must begin at least 8 weeks after the application deadline. Activities scheduled to start earlier will not be supported.
- Accredited academic courses: This includes any training or education that leads to a formal qualification.
- Business related activity: Funding is not available for start-ups or business development.
- Marketing and website costs: Applications focused mainly on marketing or website creation will not be considered.
- Filmmaking (unless part of a visual arts practice): Only visual artists working with a moving image as part of their practice are eligible.
- Community or educational projects: Projects with a community or teaching focus are not supported.
- Illustrators and graphic designers: Unless you have a self-directed practice and experience of presenting work within a visual arts or craft context.
- Building or renovation work: Studio refurbishments or similar construction projects are not eligible.
- Framing and presentation costs only: Applications solely for framing or presenting work will not be supported.
- Duplicate funding: Projects that include partnership funding from other VACMA or Creative Scotland funding programmes are not eligible.

How much can I apply for?

VACMA offers fixed bursaries of £500 and £1,000. You should apply for the level of bursary that best suits your circumstances.

- £500 Early-Career Bursary: for artists and makers who have graduated within the past 3 years or those who can demonstrate experience of the public presentation of their work within the same timeframe.
- £1000 Bursary: for artists and makers who can demonstrate more than 3 years' experience of the public presentation of their work.

Assessment Criteria

Criteria

VACMA will give priority to applications that clearly demonstrate:

- Commitment to practice - your application demonstrates relevant experience and an ongoing commitment to the development of your visual arts or craft practice.
- Creative development - your application clearly describes the opportunity for development and the impact on your creative skills and ideas.
- Clear project plan - your application demonstrates that the activity is feasible, with a clear delivery plan.

It is also a priority for VACMA to support Equalities, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI), Environmental Sustainability, and the development of career pathways across Scotland. The programme aims to create accessible entry points into professional practice, particularly for those at the early stages of their careers and those who have faced barriers to developing their practice. When demand is high, we may prioritise applicants who are newer to public funding and those who have had limited development opportunities. We will also prioritise projects and activities that consider and work to mitigate their environmental impact.

What we are looking for

Commitment to Practice

When reviewing your application, the panel will look at:

- Your written answers
- Your CV
- Examples of your work.

Your CV reflects your experience and how committed you are to your practice.

Your CV

- Put your most recent experience first.
- Focus on art-related activities – leave out anything that isn't relevant to your creative work.
- This resource: Artquest's Guide to writing a CV might help.

Examples of Your Work

- Choose work that represents your current practice.
- Make sure images are clear and of good quality – this shows you value your work and take a professional approach.
- If you're working in a new format or medium, include 1 or 2 images that show this shift.
- You might find this guide on how to photograph your artwork useful.

Creative Development

Make sure you have a clear reason for applying. In your application, explain:

- What you want to do with the bursary
- Why you want to do it
- How it will support your creative development.

The panel will want to understand the links between your proposed activity and your previous work. They'll also want to understand the impact this opportunity could have on your creative skills, ideas and future direction.

Try to be as specific as possible. For example:

- If you're applying for training or mentoring, say who you'll work with and why you've chosen them.
- Explain how this will help you develop your practice.

Clear Project Plan

The panel will assess whether your project is realistic and achievable based on the information you provide.

- Your timeline must be realistic and allow at least 8 weeks from the application deadline before starting. We cannot fund anything that starts before you receive your decision.
- Think about any risks that might impact your project and tell us how you will mitigate them. For example:
 - Have you checked the dates and availability for a course or residency?
 - Do you have a backup plan if something changes?
- If you are applying for support towards an exhibition or residency, include a letter of confirmation from the venue or host organisation. This should outline their role and contribution.
- If you are planning to organise your own exhibition, show that you've thought about:
 - How you'll reach an audience
 - Accessibility of the venue.

Budget

- You don't need to give a detailed cost breakdown – the bursary levels are fixed.
- But your project must be realistic and achievable within the amount you're applying for.

If you're working with others (such as mentors or tutors):

- Make sure you're paying them fairly
- Guidance on rates of pay is available on the Creative Scotland website.

Partnership funding is not a requirement of the fund, but:

- If the VACMA bursary is only covering part of your project, explain how you'll fund the rest
- You can include other cash or in-kind contributions (like donated space or materials) in your application.

Personal Access Costs (e.g. support for access needs) can be requested in addition to the VACMA bursary.

Please see the section below and the VACMA FAQs \(Appendix 2\) for further information.

VACMA is supported by Creative Scotland through funding from the National Lottery. As such a VACMA bursary cannot be used as partnership funding for any other Creative Scotland funding programme. This includes, but is not limited to, other VACMA schemes, the Open Fund for Individuals and the Stephen Palmer Travel Bursary.

Equalities, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI)

It is a priority for Creative Scotland and all VACMA partners to support Equalities, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI).

- VACMA is designed to be an accessible entry point into public funding and provide opportunities for people to progress their practice despite the barriers they may face.
- If demand is high, priority may be given to:
 - People newer to public funding
 - Those who've had fewer opportunities to develop their practice.

Personal Access Costs

Individuals who are defined as disabled under the Equality Act 2010 and those with caring responsibilities can apply for support towards Personal Access Costs. These are costs related to your access needs and might include reasonable adjustments or support to help you, or a key collaborator, to fully participate in your proposed activity.

Key Points:

- Personal Access Costs are separate to your bursary request.
- This is so that you can spend the full bursary amount on your planned activity.
- If applicable, you will be asked to give a brief description and breakdown of your Personal Access Costs in the application form.

For more information on Personal Access Costs please read the VACMA FAQs \(Appendix 2\).

Environmental Sustainability

Creative Scotland and VACMA partners encourage environmentally responsible practices.

- Your project doesn't need to have an environmental focus.
- But you should think about how to reduce its environmental impact where possible.

Application Process

How to make an application

To apply, please:

- Use the correct application form for your local area
- Follow the submission process for your local scheme.

You can find a copy of the application questions in Appendix 1 at the end of this document.

What to include in your application:

Along with your application form you will be asked to submit:

- Your CV - detailing your experience to date.
- 6 examples of recent work.
- An Equalities Monitoring Form.

The Equalities Monitoring Form helps us understand who VACMA is reaching. It's anonymous, kept separate from your application, and has no impact on the outcome. All data is managed confidentially, in accordance with Data Protection laws and GDPR. If you do not know some of the information or if you prefer not to provide it, you can fill in the 'Prefer not to answer' box.

Please note: If your application is successful, we may use examples of your work in reports and publicity material. Each scheme is responsible for their own privacy notice which relates to the information you provide in your application and how it is processed. This notice is included in the application form -please read it before submitting.

Decision-making process

1. Eligibility Check

All applications go through an initial eligibility check to make sure that they meet the requirements of the fund.

2. Panel Review

Eligible applications are reviewed by a panel. These include representatives of the local partner organisation and external experts such as artists, makers, curators, tutors or other arts professionals. Creative Scotland staff may also attend panels to observe. Panels change regularly to ensure a range of voices contribute to the decision-making process.

Panel process

- The panel will read your application and review your work.
- They discuss your visual and written material against the criteria. The recommendations for awards are based on these discussions.
- Decisions are based only on what you submit - panel members won't use any prior knowledge of you or your work.
- This evidence-based decision making ensures fairness for all applicants. Please do not assume that the panel will know or have already seen your work.

3. Decisions

You'll hear back within 8 weeks of the deadline, and will be contacted if there's a delay.

If you're unsuccessful:

- You can request feedback.
- If feedback isn't clear, please contact your local partner for more information.
- Being turned down isn't a reflection on the quality of your work – it may just mean others were a better fit this time.
- These funds are competitive, so even strong applications may not be funded.

Many applicants have successfully reapplied after using feedback to strengthen their proposal.

After Funding

Reporting requirements

All successful applicants are expected to complete an End of Project Monitoring Report. This report helps us to monitor the impact of the bursaries and supports the development of the scheme. Your local partner will be able to provide you with the template for this report.

All VACMA recipients must complete an End of Project Monitoring Report before they can apply for another VACMA bursary.

Appendix 2 – Frequently Asked QuestionsIs there a limit to the number of VACMA applications that I can make?

There is no limit to the number of VACMA applications that you can make, however, you can only apply once each round. If you have received a VACMA bursary previously, you must submit an end of project report before you reapply.

When faced with high demand, we may prioritise applicants who are newer to public funding and those who have had limited development opportunities.

What VACMA Scheme should I apply to?

You should apply to the scheme in the Local Authority area that you live in. If the area that you live in doesn't have a VACMA scheme, you can apply to a scheme in another area in which you maintain a studio space. If you are unsure, please check with your local partner before applying.

There is no local scheme in my area, can I apply to another scheme?

Some VACMA schemes cover multiple Local Authority areas, please check the full list of VACMA schemes to see if your area is covered.

If your local authority area isn't covered by a VACMA scheme, you may be eligible to apply if you maintain a studio space in a local authority area with a VACMA scheme. If you are unsure, please check with the VACMA scheme in question before applying.

How do I know if there is a VACMA scheme in my local area?

A full list of partners and schemes can be found on the Creative Scotland website. Some VACMA schemes cover more than one Local Authority area. Where this is the case, it will be clearly stated in the title of the VACMA scheme.

If you are still unsure if your area is covered by VACMA please contact our Enquiries team on enquiries@creativescotland.com.

What are Personal Access Costs?

Personal Access Costs are costs that are related to removing barriers (for you or a key collaborator in your project) due to disability or caring responsibilities. VACMA can support Personal Access Costs that are directly related to the delivery of your project or activity.

Personal Access Costs are separate to your bursary request. This to ensure that all applicants can spend the full bursary amount on their planned activity.

Who can request Personal Access Costs?

You can request Personal Access Costs if you or a key collaborator in your project are:

- d/Deaf
- Disabled
- Neurodivergent
- Living with chronic illness or a long-term health condition
- Hold caring responsibilities.

Some examples of access costs are:

- A BSL interpreter
- Specialist equipment or software
- A Personal Assistant for a disabled person
- One-off or short-term childcare costs.

This list is not exhaustive. You should tell us what you require in order to deliver the activity.

Please note that childcare costs are classed as a taxable benefit, so whilst VACMA can reimburse these costs, you will be responsible for reporting this to HMRC. We cannot support contributions to ongoing childcare or caregiving costs that are already in place and that do not directly relate to specific project activities or skills development.

What do you mean by Assistive Technology?

The phrase 'assistive technology' is used to describe products or systems that support and assist individuals with disabilities, restricted mobility or other impairments to perform functions that might otherwise be difficult or impossible. For example, software for text-to-speech.

Devices like laptops and tablets are not considered 'assistive technology' and can only be included if current hardware will not allow for the installation of new assistive technology that is required to deliver your project/activity. For example, if the RAM or CPU memory is not powerful enough.

In line with accessibility costs provided by other schemes such as Access to Work and Disabled Students Allowance, only the most cost-effective device that has the specifications required to run the specified assistive tech will be permitted.

If requesting support to purchase a device such as a laptop or tablet for your project, you must specify the technology and device model required, with an explanation of how they meet the needs of the individual using them, for this to be approved.

How much can I request towards Personal Access Costs?

There is no limit to the amount that you request towards Personal Access Costs, however, the costs requested must be directly related to your proposed activity. As these are small pots of funding, the panel reserves the right to offer a contribution towards Personal Access Costs.

Is there any guidance on how much to pay Support Workers?

There is no definitive guidance on rates of pay for Support Workers, however the following resource may be helpful: Access to Work Support Worker Pay Rates

In line with Creative Scotland's commitment to Fair Work we would expect payment of at least the Real Living Wage to anyone providing these services. Please note, that we do not recommend the use of artist fees for Support Worker roles.

Can I request additional budget to make my project accessible to audiences?

No. We will only consider requests for Personal Access Costs, which are costs related to removing barriers for you as an individual or for a key collaborator in your project. Costs related to making your project accessible to audiences or participants fall under general project costs and should be covered by the main bursary. They include things like captioning and use of accessible venues.

Do Personal Access Costs include travel and accommodation?

In most cases travel and accommodation costs would not be classified as Personal Access Costs. Generally, they are viewed as core project costs and should be covered by the bursary. However, if you are d/deaf, disabled, neurodivergent, living with a chronic illness or a long-term health condition you may experience higher travel and accommodation costs. If this is the case, you can include these additional costs under Personal Access Costs. For example, if you require a Support Worker to accompany you, taxis to/from your destination or additional accommodation.

How do I request Personal Access Costs?

When filling out the application form you will be asked if you would like support with Personal Access Costs. If you select 'yes' we will ask you to provide a brief description of the Personal Access Costs that you are applying for and a breakdown of the amount requested.

Is there anywhere else I can access support with Personal Access Costs?

You may also be eligible to apply for support from the UK Government's Access to Work fund, which can help cover some of the extra costs of carrying out your job, or travelling to, from and during work if you are disabled. More information on Access to Work is available on the UK Government website.

Do I need any formal qualifications to apply?

No, you do not need to have any formal qualifications to apply. However, you will need to demonstrate that you are a practicing artist/maker. Applicants should have achieved a body of work and be able to demonstrate experience of the public presentation of their work. For example, through public exhibitions, craft fairs, performances, talks, events and socially engaged projects.

What do you mean by the term 'practising'?

We use the term 'practising' to mean an artist or maker who is consistently active and has experience of presenting or reaching the public with their work. For example, through public exhibitions, craft fairs, performances, talks, events or socially engaged projects. We cannot fund artist/makers who have no experience of presenting their work publicly, or who only present their work through social media.

I'm a recent graduate, can I use my degree show as evidence that I have achieved a body of work?

If you are applying for an early-career bursary you can include your degree show as evidence that you have achieved a body of work. However, you may also want to include some examples of work that you have developed since graduating.

If you are applying for the £1000 bursary you must demonstrate that you have achieved a body of work outwith formal education.

Can students apply to VACMA?

Students in full-time education are unable to apply for VACMA. If you are a part-time student, you can apply but you will need to prove your part-time status and clearly demonstrate that the activity you are applying for does not contribute to your academic studies.

We would usually expect this to be demonstrated through a letter from your supervisor, tutor or someone with a similar level of close understanding of your studies, especially if there is any thematic overlap between your studies and the project/activity you are applying for. You may also be able to demonstrate this by including a scan of your matriculation letter if it clearly shows your subject area and your part-time status.

VACMA cannot support students with their living costs, tuition fees or costs related to full-time, long-term, formal or accredited programmes of education in the UK or abroad. For further information on student finance in Scotland, visit: Student Information Scotland.

Can I apply to VACMA to develop a new facet of my practice?

Yes, the purpose of the VACMA scheme is to support artists and makers in their creative and professional development. This can include testing new ideas and approaches. You should however explain how your proposed activity relates to your previous work. If you are applying for support to develop a new strand of your practice (e.g. if you are painter wanting to develop a moving image practice) you should explain why. Sharing images of some initial experimentation can also help the panel to understand the direction your work is moving in.

If you are applying for support to shift your practice in a completely new direction (e.g. if you are a visual artist who is developing a craft practice or vice versa) sharing some initial experimentation helps the panel to understand that what you are proposing is viable. You may also want to consider applying for an early-career bursary (even if you have a well-established practice in another medium) to reflect the emerging nature of this new area of practice. Please note that the purpose of these bursaries is to support the development of existing practice rather than a career change.

Can I apply for a collaborative project with another artist?

You can apply to collaborate with another artist. If you are submitting a joint proposal someone will need to take the lead. On a practical level this means that they would receive and manage the funds.

If each of you are applying separately (to the same scheme or to different schemes) to fund your own costs, you should assess the risk around this approach and explain the impact it would have if one of the applications is unsuccessful.

Can I apply to VACMA for activity that sits within a larger project?

You can apply for support towards activity that sits within a larger project. However, you should be clear about the activity that the VACMA bursary will support and how it will benefit your creative development.

Does my project have to take place in Scotland?

While applicants must be based in Scotland, the project can take place anywhere. If your proposal involves travel within the UK or abroad, you should tell us how you will consider and reduce the environmental impact through your planning.

Can I use the bursary to purchase equipment and materials?

You can use a VACMA bursary to purchase equipment and materials as long as you can clearly explain how it will support the development of creative practice and enable you to experiment. If the purchase of new equipment is to make your practice more commercially viable or efficient it would not be a priority for support.

If your equipment/materials cost more than the bursary level applied for, you will need to explain where the rest of the budget is coming from and assess the risk around this.

Can I apply for funds to exhibit work, such as framing and canvas costs?

VACMA is designed to support creative development and experimentation. Applications solely for framing and presentation costs are not eligible.

Can I apply to develop a website or for marketing activities?

Applications that are primarily focused on marketing and websites are not eligible for support. Applications that include some marketing and website costs as part of a wider project/activity are considered eligible, however the focus should be on the development of your creative practice. Applications that are focused on promotional activity only are unlikely to be a priority.

Can I apply to VACMA to support the start-up costs or development of my business?

VACMA does not support costs relating to business start-up and development. Individuals who are seeking support to start or develop their business should visit Business Gateway.

Can I apply for a VACMA bursary to develop an application for the Open Fund for Individuals?

VACMA is designed to support creative development and experimentation. It cannot support an individual to develop a funding application to another Creative Scotland fund. However, VACMA can be used to develop ideas or test approaches that you could then further develop with support from another Creative Scotland fund, such as the Open Fund for Individuals.

Can I apply to VACMA for support to deliver a community project if I have a participatory practice?

We will only consider community projects that are self-initiated and part of a socially engaged or participatory arts practice. Given the purpose of this fund, applications must demonstrate how the project/activity will impact on your creative and professional development.

Applications for funding to deliver a community or educational project on behalf of an organisation are not eligible for support.

Are the mentoring schemes running this year?

The mentoring schemes were paused due to COVID-19. However, we will continue to review this position and may reintroduce them in the future. If you would benefit from mentoring, you can use the bursary to arrange this yourself.

Can illustrators and graphic designers apply to VACMA?

If you can demonstrate that your practice and proposed activity falls within a visual arts or craft context, then you can apply for support. However, given that the focus of this fund is visual art and craft you may be less of a priority for support.

Does VACMA support heritage crafts?

Traditional and heritage craft skills are important both in terms of their creative output and the link to intangible cultural heritage and should be safeguarded and supported. VACMA supports traditional/heritage craft projects that contain a developmental element. Applicants must show they are developing their skills or creating work in new or innovative ways. VACMA does not support projects that are solely focused on the recreation of existing objects or designs.
